Objets d'art & de curiosité

CRÂNATOMIE
PARIS

Benoit Peleran est fêlé de crânes ! Benoit Peleran is really mad about skulls!

Dans l'œuvre de Benoit Peleran, le crâne sert de structure, de base détachée de toute enveloppe, qu'il utilise comme une matière première doté d'un extraordinaire potentiel.

Le processus de dépouillement est tout autant minutieux qu'exhaustif et fait partie intégrante du développement de l'œuvre puisque ce n'est que de cette façon qu'il est possible de prendre conscience des caractéristiques, de la particularité et de la perfection de chaque pièce.

Le crâne nous rappelle la permanence de la mort et la vie qui n'est plus mais il est désormais un objet nouveau et par sa nouvelle composition, ses couleurs, ses textures il se transforme en un élément plastique et référentiel, sourire ironique de sa propre immobilité.

In the work of Benoit Peleran, skulls serve as a structure, a basis away from any covering. He uses them as a raw material having an amazing potential.

The process is both meticulous and exhaustive: it's an integral part of the development of the work because it's the only way to be aware of the characteristics, the particularities and the perfection of each skull.

The skull reminds us constantly the presence of death and that life vanishes but it's now a brand new object. Thanks to its new composition, its colours and its textures, it turns into a plastic and referential element, ironic smile of its own immobility.

Alessandra Rovati Vitali, Directrice artistique de Tearose qu'elle a fondé en 1995. Amoureuse de l'art et des artistes passionnée de voyage nous transmet sa passion pour la nature.

Alessandra cristallise des pièces qu'elle sublime par le jeu de la transparence et des lumières. Elle vient poser des couleurs irréelles à la fois subtiles ou étonnamment chargées.

Les ramifications se parent de cristal. Sociées, elles deviennent des objets de curiosité, d'émotion et sont de véritables objets d'art.

Alessandra Rovati Vitali, Art Director of Tearose which she founded in 1995. Art and artist lover travels with and without moving. She transmits her passion for nature.

Alessandra crystallizes nature that she sublimates through the game of transparency and lights. She adds unreal colours, sometimes sublime other times surprisingly.

Ramifications are dressed in crystal and on their socle, they become real objects of curiosity, emotion and turn into real pieces of art.
